Bin über einen Youtuber auf diese Liste der 25 "Besten" HT-Ärzte gestoßen

<https://www.apetogentleman.com/worlds-best-hair-transplant-doctors/>

Wollte fragen was ihr davon haltet? Da sind ja doch einige die ich hier nie gehört habe und einige hier im Forum etablierten Ärzte werden da gar nicht erwähnt.

Der Youtube ist der hier <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=MeQ4ZvEHb7Y>

So wie ich das verstanden habe, sagt er, dass nur die FUE-Ärzte natürliche Haarlinien produzieren, die eine manuelle Entnahme und mittels einem Mikroskop arbeiten, weil man nur so sicherstellen kann, ob ein Single Graft auch wirklich ein Single Graft ist und kein double oder multi. Und Ärzte die ohne Mikroskop arbeiten verpflanzen "unwissentlich" zu viele multis in die Haarlinie, was dann wiederum unnatürlich aussieht. Was ist da dran?

Naja Bisanga, Bisanga & Cole (Griechenland), Koray Erdogan, Feriduni, Lupanzula, Mwamba, Muresanu und Wong werden doch schon regelmäßig empfohlen.

Eine generelle Rangliste wie obige würde ich allerdings nicht erstellen wollen. Hängt immer von der individuellen Ausgangssituation (Donor, Körper, Kopfform, Haarfarbe, Budget, Reisebereitschaft, Risikobereitschaft usw.) ab.

Cooley, Bauman, Ball, die Australier, Kanadier, Koreaner usw. werden so gut wie nie empfohlen, weil

a) die erfahrenen User sich aus ganz verschiedenen Gründen hier immer mehr zurückziehen und Wissen abfließt;

b) die meisten User sowieso ein beschränktes Budget, eine geringe Reisebereitschaft und oft auch bereits eine starke Präferenz haben. Dagegen anzukämpfen macht idR kein Sinn Grundsätzlich gibt es empfehlenswerte Kliniken auf der ganzen Welt. Darunter auch "günstige", die sich nicht den Luxus gönnen in ALLEN großen Foren gelistet zu sein und zig Vertreter zu unterhalten. Machen teilweise auch wenig Online-Marketing.

Empfehlen werde ich hier nichts mehr. Einfach selbst recherchieren: IAHRs ist z.B. ein guter Startpunkt.

Der Markt in Europa ist doch gut abgedeckt finde ich.
Da ist für jeden was dabei und man kann sich Reisen nach Übersee sparen.

Und diese Top Listen sind doch ohnehin immer mit Vorsicht zu genießen.

I wish to clarify that I made the video, but I did not write the Top 25 list. That was written by Spencer Stevenson in the UK, sometimes known as "Spex". My video was made to talk about why most hairlines today look awful and to show examples of hairlines that are natural. It was purely educational in context.

Thank you for your reply Joe. I found your videos very informative and interesting. I wasn't aware that a microscope is necessary in order to distinguish between a single, double or multi graft. And I was just a bit "shocked" my doctor (HLC) wasn't on your top surgeon list.

Thanks for your input, I will be checking out more of your content in the future.

Hello Pame. I know about HLC but they have never applied for membership. When clinics apply, I require a lot of information that is not publically available as it is a legitimate process for me to review a clinic. I do more than just look at their pictures:) However, what I do see is good and I know they have a sensible approach to surgery with doctors performing the work and doing smaller cases.

Well, I couldn't find Lars Heitmann as well. Without disrespectfully downsizing any of your great efforts in consulting and mentoring but your "company" does only educate and inform patients about elected clinics and physicians who are willing to financially support you. Or, as you have written in the mission of your website : This insight is not free so each doctor mentioned on this website pays a monthly retainer for my services which includes online representation when necessary, clinical operations input and recommendations and a direct line of communication for patient interaction and/or conflict.

HLC and other highly recommendable clinics may not necessarily want or need financial membership with every consultant - even when being in tight relationship with valued organizations. To avoid misunderstandings: I appreciate your efforts.

Regarding Lars, again, I did not write the "TOP 25" list so it has nothing to do with me. I've met Lars, he does nice work, but I know little beyond this.

Unfortunately, Lipohair, you misunderstood me. First, you're incorrect about the education I give. I have a full series of videos in my Hair Transplant Education section of my Youtube channel that discusses facts about hair transplant surgery and I do not discuss or mention any clinics I work with in these videos unless they have provided content that helps me with the video. I believe there is only one video where this is noted. These videos are intended to be clinic neutral. The single video I can recall where I do in fact discuss clinics is the video linked above, "Celebrity Hair Transplant Disasters: The Kyle Christie Effect". I mentioned clinics I do work with and showed their examples of natural hairlines. I also specifically mentioned clinics I do NOT work with, but still provide excellent results, in order to preserve balance and an unbiased overview. I hope this makes things more clear as I try to be incredibly fair in my presentations.

As I mentioned in my previous post, I do not know much more about HLC than the average patient. This is because they have not applied for membership. If one has not applied, I cannot investigate them deeper because I require information that is not publicly available. I also stated that what I see of their work, looks quite good. This proves that I only compliment clinics that I have a relationship with. I compliment other clinics when they deserve to be complimented, regardless of my affiliation.

I hope you decide to research more before making false statements. Thank you.

As for the "false statements" I guess you're missing the point. I wasn't talking about general information on hair transplant nor about biased coverage. It's all about that: not every excellent clinic probably needs or wants to apply for a membership at your organization. Simple as that. They may have a reason for it. Period.

"I wasn't talking about general information on hair transplant nor about biased coverage. "

You specifically implied bias because part of my income comes from clinics paying me to be on my website and Youtube channel. You stated..."your "company" does only educate and inform patients about elected clinics and physicians who are willing to financially support you." I corrected you in that I have a large educational section that is completely unbiased. Therefore, you made a false statement.

"not every excellent clinic probably needs or wants to apply for a membership at your organization."

I completely agree and you're stating the obvious. I never say that anyone needs to apply for membership. The issue came up because Pame said he was surprised his doctor at HLC was not on my website, or my "list" which he mistakenly assumed was the "Top 25..." list. I stated that the reason they are not on MY website is because they never applied to be but this is in no way a negative reflection on them as a clinic. I happen to like the work I've seen from HLC over the years and I openly state as such.

Most forums will take anyone that will pay them but I am not a forum. There are many very good clinics that I am aware of, many I know personally and am friends with, but my website highlights clinics that have asked me to review them in depth and they have opened themselves up to me with detailed information. I also do not imply that clinics that are not a part of my website are inferior in any way.
