"The question is whether its good at the hairline. Estradiol and spiro SEEM, from my layman's point of view, to both do something very similar. Estradiol is counter effective (i think actually it shortens growth) on the vertex and scalp, but is somewhat beneficial on the hairline. Based on this i wonder if we could say the same for spiro. Lipoxidil.com has stated for a very long time that their spiro is recommended for hairlines, but i never heard that before or understood why until now...so maybe they were ahead of the game on this one. Someone more science savvy than myself and with more time on their hands needs to address this issue."
