Kennt sich jemand damit aus?

Bei den Amis (Wie sollte es auch anders sein ) haben es schon einige getestet.

Hier z.B.:

A lot of you will know that I have been having good results with topical Flutamide.

For the last 4 weeks I have been applying a 1% topical hydrocortisone cream and im telling you guy's my hair is even thicker. I have a thin patch on the front of my right hand side of my scalp and the hairs there are getting thicker by the day. The topical Flutamide was having trouble in this area but with the addition of the cream things are picking up.

My shedding has also been further reduced.

Ein anderer Benutzer schrieb das hier:

Hydrocortisone, in my view, is one of the "underrated" hairloss weapons out there. I've made "limited" use of extra-strength scalpigin for years (usually once a week on Sunday night) to give myself an extra BOOST in the battle against inflammation.

For those who don't know, hydrocortisone has very strong anti-inflammatory properties.

Ich finde das Thema sollte man nicht gleich abstempeln bzw. links liegen lassen.

Das sollte man sich mal genauer anschauen/untersuchen.
