Perhaps of even more importance, Dr. Tsuji/Kyocera/RIKEN partner Organ Technologies also updated or renewed their website (h/t Fuji Maru Kagurazaka) recently. On their hair follicle regeneration page (after translation), they state:

"We are currently pursuing research and development with a view to clinical application of hair follicle regeneration as the world's first organ regeneration in humans in 2018"

i recommend using those oils for hair loss

Clary Sage Oil

it contains high levels of phytoestrogen, which is well known to induce and promote hair growth.

Rosemary Oil

This oil is deemed to be essential due to what it actually contains of high levels of antioxidants which help improve and enhance circulation and blood flow; thus, increasing cellular growth and regenerating hair follicles.

Carrot Oil

Carrots enrich you with plentiful amounts of carotenes and other antioxidants.

It is also high in vitamin A, it is known to spur up and regenerate follicle and skin cells as well as to support in hair regeneration and reinforcement.

Sorry to say, but oils won't cure your hair loss as long as it is genetic (which most of us suffer).
